

The application for experimental frequencies is to test the newly developed LTE eNodeB (Base station) system. The test system consists of two base stations with antennas mounted on the roof of the building and hand held phones (commercial products from various vendors).

The LTE phone and LTE base station will interconnect over air interface using modulated signal at QPSK, 16QAM, 64QAM.