

Bowling Green State University is a noncommercial educational institution.

The radar bandwidth will be used solely for academic research and education by university faculty, students and staff.