Description	If you already have a FCC approved license for this request, then there is no need for an extension on the FAA coordination. Unless there are technical changes with the 2 year request, this current coordination should be adequate. The FAA coordination's EXD is only applicable for your application process with the FCC; if you did not get a new grant by the EXD, then you would need to recoordinate with the FAA.

Description	With coordination NG T210101 we were able to apply with the FCC for an Experimental STA, which was granted. We are now applying for a 2-year Experimental license and we request the FAA for an extension of coordination NG T210101, according to the duration of the 2-year Experimental license. Thanks.
