

The research project will demonstrate a suite of autonomous capabilities to enable expeditionary operations. The operational value of these systems will be evaluated through military utility demonstrations in the Skyborg Autonomous Attributable Aircraft Experiment (AAAx) campaign. The requested authorization will be used to provide communication essential to the project, but is not part of the capability demonstration.