

The radar is a synthetic aperture and ground moving target indicator. The modulating waveform is a linear frequency modulated chirp.

The necessary bandwidth was obtained by measurement as section 2.202 of the FCC rules did give a formula for this modulation

The requested band is wider than the necessary bandwidth, since the center frequency will vary depending on measurement parameters.