Harris Corporation through its Farinon Division designs and manufactures equipment used for microwave systems in the bands available under Parts 21, 22, 74, 78 and 101 of the Commission's Rules. The experimental license is needed to test equipment in the design and developmental stages, field testing, and for demonstration to prospective purchases. Therefore, Harris Corporation requires experimental authorization for an indefinite period of time. Accordingly, the Commission is requested to issue the license applied for herewith for a period of two years.
