

Date: January 10, 2007

Request for Expedited Processing for FCC File Number 0676-EX-ST-2006

Rockwell Collins requests that the FCC expedite processing of the application for the Special Temporary Authority (STA) for FCC File Number 0676-EX-ST-2006. This application was filed on September 7, 2006. The application for the STA was filed in order to test the Tactical Data Radio System (TDRS) that Rockwell Collins is developing for the Defense Ministries of several European countries.

The request for expedited processing is filed because Rockwell Collins needs to start testing the TDRS as soon as possible before the TDRS is scheduled to be delivered to the British Ministry of Defense on January 26, 2007. The period of operation for this license is five months. Rockwell Collins will only need this license for the five-month period. Rockwell Collins has obtained all necessary approvals to deliver this system to the British Ministry of Defense and is only waiting on action on behalf of the FCC so that testing of the TDRS system can begin. If you have any questions concerning the request, please contact John Giff at 703.516.8213.