

The initially requested ERP of 14.3W was originally based on conservative simulations and estimates in order to guarantee enveloping the emitted power. However, Type Approval testing was performed with flight-equivalent hardware configuration and reflects the most accurate representation of radiated power, which informs the 6.4W ERP now proposed. This rationale also applies to the Crew-2 SARSAT license application ERP value and makes them consistent.