

The University of Miami would like to apply for a fee exemption based on the non-profit status as a research institution, and the potential use of the data collected for student research.