

FCC License Fee Exemption

Virginia Tech is a state educational institution applying for a license needed for completion of a federally funded research project. As such we claim exemption from the fee requirement associated with the license application.