

The purpose of the application:

The license will be used to help evaluate LTE technology and ALU LTE product performance in a controlled over-the-air test environment. The tests will be critical in timely delivery of commercial grade product. Over-the-air test and validation is important to evaluate and validate wireless technology performance. Specific test areas include validation of call processing, handoffs, power control and data scheduler algorithms.