

Bowling Green State University is a publicly-funded university.

All work conducted under the requested FCC authorization will be conducted solely on a research and educational basis.