

EXHIBIT #1

- a. The Experimental/Developmental license will be in support of on-going development of new communication products, evaluation for ground to air aviation requirements. Both analog and digital techniques will be investigated during the product development cycle.
- b. The objectives of this development effort is the Test and evaluation of product designs and also for customer on-site demonstrations.
- c. The on-going development program is projected to fully utilize new digital signal processing techniques to expand the application of both voice and data transmission within the aviation ground-to-air communication supplying equipment to military & commercial customers

225-400

- general land

- not location (coord & desc.) where most testing will take place?

Fishers, NY

108-136: customers:
- FAA

Atlantic City Radio House
U. of Ohio.