

DMT has presented the FCC with the peak and average power numbers. However, since the unit will be spinning at a 48 deg/sec rate the average power will be less than 158 microvolts. Given the stated rotation rate, the average power to any one location would be 4.3 times less or 36.7 microvolts.