Experimental Licensing System

Reason for request for confidentiality

To whom it may concern,

Fleetwood Enterprises Inc. is in the business of designing and manufacturing state of the art recreational vehicles and homes. The RV business is fraught with stiff competition. A manufacturer who can bring a new design to market before their competitors can establish a hold of the market share of that particular vehicle class especially when it involves new technology.

Fleetwood has designed a new mechanical assembly that requires us to test it for EMC susceptibility due to the large amount of electronics that are used in this new design.

We respectfully request that the FCC keep exactly what Fleetwood is testing hence why we are requesting this license in the strictest confidence. The release of this information prior to Fleetwood getting this new design to market could greatly impact Fleetwood's financial gains from this new design and potentially release proprietary information about this new design to direct competitors.

We appreciate your concern and look forward to working with you.

Sincerely,

David A. Nyberg II BSEE
