

Hood River Oregon and White Salmon Washington are directly across the Columbia river from each other. As you can see from the pasted pick from Google Maps below the are within much less than 5 miles from each other. The vessel could actually depart from either side of the river for the tests depending on its actual schedule for the day. The second location for Paducah/Hickman county KY is a similar scenario.

