

Justification For Need of 5-Year License

A 5-year license is requested. The product development time for a new implantable medical device is approximately 4 years. Added to that time is the time spent doing preliminary research to verify the viability of RF telemetry system. It is therefore expected to take 5 years before a market ready product would be available to test for conformity.