

Directional Antennas

The directional antennas InterDigital will be utilizing are capable of rotating 360 degrees on the horizontal plane and 180 degrees on the vertical plane. During actual testing, the base station antennas will be oriented in the horizontal plane so as to focus emissions within the test area and may also be tilted slightly up or downward in the vertical plane so as to be targeted towards the mobiles.