The cellphones are limited to the T-Mobile network. Customer states the difference between the T-Mobile license and the current request is the phones will be used in flight. AGL is the difference between T-Mobile's terrestrial license and the Customer's request. Customer was directed to obtain an FCC experimental license before conducting the test. None of the Customer's phones will operate any differently than any other currently authorized T-Mobile phone. Customer's phones are provided by T-Mobile and will operate under a T-Mobile cell plan.
