

Exhibit B

Lockheed Martin is requesting a five year license to allow sufficient time to develop, build and test four modular array radars. Developing four engineering units is time consuming and technically challenging. An average of one prototype each of 1.25 years is an aggressive plan.