

Program Description

LMCO is investigating the use of WIMAX to meet federal government needs for secure communications. We will be experimenting in different environments, under varying conditions to quantify system performance.