

License Supplement

This system is a data link ground station used to pass information with an airborne system. The antenna is designed to vary direction with the airborne system location. It has an elevation envelope from -05 to 89 degrees and can traverse 360 degrees in the azimuth of horizontal direction.