

Systems Description and Explanation

The experimentation is focused on field testing of a broad range of signal emissions including those for DF/COMINT systems, tactical radios, networked radio communication systems, radio navigation systems, WiMax, and radar, with and without jamming. Results from the experimentation will be used to enhance effectiveness of future military radio frequency systems.