

This FCC experimental license application is being requested to support the development and test of a prototype sensor. The sensor can be mounted in the nose of a BE-55 Beechcraft Baron aircraft and tested at altitudes below 300 meters. The test aircraft will be flown in accordance with FAA regulations and will not interfere with the operations of other aircraft. A picture of the test aircraft is shown below.

