Dear Anthony Serafini,

Oceanit has not begun transmit/receive testing of our phased-array antenna with the Ku-band satellite as of yet as our prototype development has been delayed by almost 9 months. We would like to extend under this Special Temporary Authorization until at least August 31, 2010 to accommodate testing in ~July 2010. Actual transmit/receive testing with the satellite will only last for approximately 2 weeks and this is why a 2 year license was never applied for nor is desired at this time. I appreciate your understanding of this situation and hope that you will grant the extension of the STA. Please let me know if you require anything further.

Respectfully,
Derek Ahyo
