

This GPS repeater device is going to be used in our repair lab. We are servicing and repairing navigation units used in automobiles. The signal will only be spread out over the lab area, no more than 100 feet from the repeater. We have an old repeater we purchased five years ago before a license was required and need another one due to an increase in product needing service.