Application Narrative for Proposed Special Equipment Program

Proposed Program

Praemittias Group Inc, or PGI, specializes in the application of asymmetric targeting operations and training via technical and human intelligence as well as the related skill sets of technology evaluation, systems engineering and low visibility combat and survivability training.

PGI was founded by Special Operations intelligence professionals. We are staffed almost exclusively by vetted, experienced former Special Operations, DOD Special Mission Unit and National Level Intelligence Agency professionals. Many of our employees are recognized subject matter experts, without equal in their fields.

PGI requires a GPS signal indoors for 4 different applications that are critical to develop, manufacture and test products used in a variety of US military applications.

Specific Objectives include the following:

1. Product testing inside an anechoic chamber
2. Final validation testing prior to shipping
3. R&D development within a small modular office
4. Software development
