

Request to Extend Renewal Period

Due to many changes in the Federal Government's specifications and parameters for the device being created under the contract, and a partnered company's falling several months behind in the original schedule on their portion of the government contract, over-the-air testing of the pager being developed has been postponed several times. Therefore, Radio Design Group requests a renewal of its experimental license and to extend the period between renewals to three years.

Radio Design Group anticipates that over-the-air testing will begin in the next two months and continue periodically as the government contract continues to evolve its specifications for the device.
