

Experiments will be conducted in the lab only. The time will be late night when fewest people are watching TV. We will also use low-gain antennas and keep the equipments on for a very short time in order to minimize the interference to current primary users.