

Request for Confidentiality

Rockwell Collins requests confidentiality for license because the application contains proprietary information that other companies could use to create a similar system. Confidentiality is also requested in order to prevent (or delay) other parties from developing effective countermeasures against this intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance system.