

Experimentation Description

The GPS repeater will be use to service aircrafts in-door. Therefore, damage and accidents will be minimize and weather based delays will be eliminated.

After a long revue of the technical data provided by the manufacturer such installation will be impact free to the environment and will not interfere with the telecommunication infrastructures existing in the area.

Conclusion

The Experimental permit license should be granted without any restriction.