

This experimental license will be used to support personal experimentation in digital radio. Experiments will include two-way radio ranging and radio channel measurement. One fixed station and one mobile station will be used to perform the experiments.