Dear Sir:

Can TCB certify the device without PAG if no other issues listed in KDB388624?

Thanks.

FCC response on 03/01/2016

What is PAG and do you have a TC number for the application?

---Reply from Customer on 03/01/2016---

Dear Sir:

Please refer to attached files for PAG (PRE-APPROVAL GUIDANCE)

No TC number can be provided to you now since the project is not submitted to TCB yet.

And there is no other issue listed in KDB388624 for the device.

Can TCB certify the device without PAG?

Thanks.

PRE-APPROVAL GUIDANCE PROCEDURE

I. INTRODUCTION

In establishing the requirements for Telecommunications Certification Bodies (TCBs), the Commission allowed TCBs to certify equipment; however, certain equipment authorization functions continue to require oversight by the Commission. Section 2.964 specifies Pre-Approval Guidance (PAG) procedures for continuing the Commission oversight where compliance review procedures are not fully developed.¹ The PAG procedure permits the equipment authorization approval process for certain types of applications where there is no existing Commission guidance, where the Commission has only issued partial guidance, or where Commission oversight of the approval process is still considered necessary, for example, for nascent technologies.

The PAG procedure for TCBs applies to finalizing the equipment authorization approval for devices identified in the PAG List

FCC response on 03/03/2016

You have provided the confidentiality request and the NDA. If the next step is to contact the TCB, then please do so. Remember to provide the KDB Tracking No. with your Form 731 to the TCB. You have completed the pre-approval process.
