

Circuit Description

The transmission is composed of an MCU custom coding IC and a peripheral oscillation modulation amplifier circuit. When the function button is pressed, the IC encodes into a set of binary serial codes, and the modulation signal loads the encoded signal into the carrier, is amplified by the amplification circuit, and is transmitted by the antenna.

The working frequency is 40.680MHz