What's inside

What's inside

In the box you will find:

1. Elvie

Use to track your pelvic floor exercises.

2. Carry case

Keeps Elvie safe and doubles up as a charger. Push to open.

3. Micro USB cable

Connects the carry case to a USB power supply for charging.

4. Extra cover

Provides custom sizing for extra comfort.

Charging Elvie

- 1. Place Elvie in the carry case and close it. The tail needs to be on top, pointing towards the USB port. If using the extra cover, please remove before charging.
- 2. Use the cable provided to connect the carry case to a USB power source, such as your computer or phone plug.
- 3. Check that the light above the cable on the carry case turns on. The light will turn off when Elvie is fully charged.

When using Elvie, the app will alert you when it needs charging.

Before you start

Before first use, please remember to:

See p.5 for details.
- 2. Download the Elvie app
Elvie only works with the Elvie app. Download the app through iTunes or Google Play. Once installed, open it and follow the on-screen instructions.

- 4. Switch on the bluetooth on your phone

Using Elvie for the first time

Open the Elvie app to be guided on how to use Elvie for the first time.

1. Connect Elvie

Elvie has a sensor inside that tries to connect to your phone when you squeeze it (with your hand or pelvic floor muscles). To connect your Elvie for the first time, simply squeeze it in your hand for 3 seconds.

2. Insert Elvie

Elvie is easy to insert; similar to using a tampon, the pebble shaped part goes inside your vagina and the tail remains outside, facing forward. (images 2a & 2b). Be sure to fully insert the pebble shaped part, but not too high up. If you pull down gently, you will feel a slight resistance against the vaginal opening. If Elvie doesn't feel comfortable, try using water-based lubricant.

3. Find the right fit

Elvie can feel too small or loose for many women. Try with and without the cover to see what feels best. To put on the extra cover, simply thread the Elvie tail through the cover and pull over the pebble-shaped part (image 3).

4. Pick exercise position

We recommend you try exercising standing up with your legs shoulder width apart (image 4a). If this doesn't feel comfortable, try lying down, knees up, legs apart (image 4b). For best results, please set your targets and keep on exercising in the same position over time.

How to exercise

The pelvic floor is a powerful little set of muscles that stretches like a hammock between your pubic bone and your tailbone. When healthy and toned, they lift up your pelvic organs for a strong core and great control.

If you aren't sure what it feels like to exercise your pelvic floor, imagine that you are trying to keep yourself from passing gas. This muscle movement is what you need to master. (But don't keep doing it while you're peeing!)

How to exercise

When exercising, remember to:

- Make sure your stomach, buttocks and thighs remain relaxed and don't hold your breath
- Take a deep breath to relax and as you breathe out squeeze your pelvic floor inwards and upwards

The Elvie app provides more guidance as you exercise. You can also check out elvie.com for videos and more information on how to perfect your exercise technique.

Connectivity

Elvie works the best when the tail is not obscured by clothing or flesh. Always keep your legs open when exercising and your phone in the line of sight with Elvie, as detailed in p.10.

At the beginning of each exercise, you need to squeeze your Elvie to make it start trying to connect to your phone. It can take up to 15 seconds to connect Elvie, depending on your phone's connectivity.

If Elvie disconnects during the exercise, it should reconnect automatically. If you are having troubles reconnecting, try squeezing Elvie for 3 seconds. If that doesn't work, take out Elvie and try squeezing it in your hand.
