Radio Frequency Interference

Radio frequency emissions from electronic equipment can interfere with other electronic equipment and can cause malfunctions. Although this mobile device has been designed, tested and manufactured in accordance with the EU regulations on radio frequency emissions, the mobile device's wireless transmitter and electrical circuits can cause interference with other electronic equipment. We recommend that you take the following precautions:

Plane:

Wireless equipment can cause interference in aircraft.

- Turn off the mobile device before boarding a plane
- Do not use on the runway without the crew's permission

Vehicles:

Telephone radio-frequency emissions can affect a motor vehicle's electronic systems. With regards to your vehicle, check with the manufacturer or dealer.

Medical Implants:

To avoid any interference with the medical device, manufacturers of medical devices recommend a minimum distance of 15cm between wireless equipment and a medical implant such as a pacemaker or defibrillator. The following is recommended to people who have such devices:

- Always keep the wireless device at a distance of over 15cm from the medical device.
- Do not carry the wireless device in a breast pocket.
- Hold the wireless device at the ear opposite the medical device

Turn your device off in places where regulations apply, especially in hospitals.

Health Facilities:

Hospitals and health facilities may be using equipment that is particularly sensitive to external radio-frequency emissions. Turn your mobile device off when staff or signs tell you to Switch off your equipment in zones where the atmosphere is potentially explosive. Follow all official instructions. Sparks in such areas could cause an explosion or fire, resulting in serious bodily injury or death. especially near the gas pumps. Carefully observe instructions on use in fuel depots, storage and distribution areas, at chemical plants or in areas where explosives are used. Areas with a potentially explosive atmosphere are often, but not always clearly marked. These include areas where it is normally advisable to switch off engines, the area below deck on boats, faculties where chemicals are transferred or stored and areas where the air contains chemicals or particles such as grain, dust or metallic powder. Check with the manufacturers of vehicles that use LPG (such as butane or propane) if the device can be used safely in their vicinity.

All our mobile devices conform to international standards and regulations, and where appropriate national recognition, to limit the exposure of users to electro magnetic fields. These standards and regulations were adopted after extensive scientific research. This research does not link the use of mobile phones with any adverse effects on health if the equipment is used in accordance to standards and regulations. However, if you want to reduce the levels of exposure to radio frequency radiation you can limit your time using the mobile device in wireless mode because the length of time is a contributing factor to the exposure received by a person. Similarly, keeping the mobile device away from the body is another factor, as exposure levels lessen dramatically with distance.
