

Because of the similarities between the indoor and outdoor units, we would like to authorize both under the same FCC ID. The boards are identical. The outdoor unit has less functionality but none that the indoor unit does not have. The RF output path, output components and antennas are identical. Both enclosures are made of non-conductive plastic. Photos of the internal mounting have been uploaded to the ACB website.