Subject: The rationale for the inclusion of head SAR tests for a tablet device.

FCC ID: A3LGTP3108

To Whom It May Concern:

This portable tablet device allows for the use of next to head operation.

It has a receiver which is located on the front-top edge of the device for supporting the voice and VoIP call mode.

The measurement results show you that this device is designed not to exceed the limits for exposure to radio waves (radio frequency electromagnetic field energy) recommended by FCC guidelines.

And for your information, two speakers and one microphone are located on the front-bottom side of the device.

If you require additional information please contact the undersigned.
