Dear Examiner:

With reference to your email correspondence Reference No: 10752, I would like to submit information you have asked on FCC ID: AS5BTS2K-01 for type approval of GSM 1900 Transceiver.

Item 1: While the recently submitted confidentiality request letter adequately justifies the request for the user's manual and internal photos, it did not list the schematic diagrams, for which confidentiality is also apparently sought. Please resubmit the request, with all the same information (the justifications), but also listing the schematics. While no justification is required for listing the schematics, they still must be specifically mentioned.

Response: See letter attached

Subject: Confidential Treatment for User's Manual, Internal Photos and Schematic - FCC ID: AS5BTS2K-01

Dear Examiner:

The 'GSM 1900 Transceiver' FCC ID AS5BTS2K-01 will not be sold to the general public, but restricted to network operators. The 'User's Manual' is provided to the network operators under a non-disclosure agreement. The Lucent Technologies holds the proprietary rights of equipment construction. The general public does not have access to either User's Manual, or Internal Construction of GSM 1900 transceiver. The schematics contain Lucent Technologies Proprietary information. Therefore I would like to request you to treat the following as confidential.

- (1) User's Manual
- (2) Internal photos
- (3) Schematics

Thanks.

Sincerely,
