

Atten Regulatory Agency.

Edgewater Wireless Access Point products are sold through distributors and professional dealers. Our unique multi-channel technology requires that antennas selection and orientation must conform to the options provide in our technical user documentation to achieve full performance capability while meeting the approved regulatory configuration.

Our wireless products are not marketed or sold via retail channels but are sold for industrial and commercial network applications.

Edgewater requires our dealers to take a 1 day course where our product specialist provide training in regards to installation, configuration, RF coverage issues and antenna options for our product. Also the final equipment installers and operators are professional personnel trained by either Edgewater or our distributors. The final end user clients cannot access the APs management and configuration interface since it is password protected and is not network accessible due to an isolated VLAN configuration.

Donovan Wallace

VP Engineering
Edgewater Wireless Systems Inc.

April 26, 2012