Introduction

The Spektrum SPMA9500 SkyID Module provides real-time GPS telemetry broadcast via Bluetooth in compliance with the FAA remote ID requirements (FAR14 Section 89). The Bluetooth broadcasts in accordance with the ASTM F3411-19. This module will transmit a unique serial number which can be used to identify your aircraft and its location. Various Remote ID applications are available for mobile and PC which may be used to identify the broadcast signals from this device.

To be in compliance with the FAA Remote ID requirements, the serial number from this SkyID Module must be registered with the FAA. The unique serial number for your device may be acquired from the label on the product case, via telemetry with a compatible Spektrum transmitter, through a 3rd party mobile app, or from the SPMA3065 USB Programmer with a PC. The SkyID can also be updated using the Spektrum USB Programmer and PC programmer application.

Visit the SPMA9500 product page at HorizonHobby.com for more information.
