

Operational Description

The transmitter as shown by the schematic is a simple microprocessor based device. When a button is pressed, the circuit is powered up and the microprocessor “reads” which button or buttons are depressed. The data is formatted into a serial stream and sent to the radio module which broadcasts the data used a CPCA modulation.