

Indications of FCC ID or IC number are made outside the product.
The user can check the display when removing the key from the product.