

A listing of parts can be found in the operational description exhibit, which is held in confidence for this filing. Additionally, individual component values are identified in the schematics – also held in confidence.