

Approved Accessories

The body worn accessory is nothing more than a method to connect to device to the body.

Below is a picture of the belt clip. It is a standard type used extensively by the cell phone industry.

The next mounting solution is comprised of a metal band for fastening a Velcro strap to the device.

The band is inserted through a loop in the Velcro and fastened to the back of the device.

