

The label will be placed under the battery compartment, and it's visible to the users as they purchase the product and install the battery.