

For your information

As it stands, the revised manual info still contains a 50% duty factor and did not provide any duty factor info to support that claim. The instructions still contain the incorrect push-to-talk (in front of a person's face) operating procedures for this cordless phone that is held next to the ear. The user's manual needs to agree with the usage of the device – please correct as this communication will be placed in the file.