

Figure 1 consists of two side-by-side photographs of a mobile phone's internal components, showing the antenna and RF module. The left photograph shows the 'Antennas Pcb' (Antenna PCB) with a label pointing to it. The right photograph shows the 'RF Module installed' with a label pointing to it. Both photographs show the internal circuitry, including the battery, antenna, and various electronic components.

RF Module installed