⚠ WARNING!

Continuous use of any keyboard may cause certain types of injury to the wrists, arms, neck or back. If you feel some pain, numbness, tingling or in these areas consult a qualified health professional.

TO REDUCE THE RISKS OF SUCH INJURIES FOLLOW THESE PRECAUTIONS:

- Position yourself: Choose a chair that provides support to your lower back. Adjust your work surface height and position so assume a comfortable and natural body posture.
- Go Lighter: Type with a light touch. Adjust key travel and force if needed. Avoid resting your palms or wrists on the desk or table while typing. Don't rest on elbows. Rest on the back of your hand.
- Take Breaks: Take frequent short breaks. Get up every 30 minutes at least a couple of times every hour. Adjust the keycap so the key does not press into the base of your chair.
