RE: FCC ID: IXMUB22111S

Attention: Alan Lane

I have a few comments on this Application.

- 1 You have requested modular approval for this device. However, the manual is for a Bluetooth Dongle (step 12 page 8), not a module. Then on page 19 you call it a module. A module would be sold to an OEM for incorporation into a final product, your reference to a Bluetooth Dongle is for a final product already not a module. Please make the documentation consistent. If this is the manual that will be provided with this device, then the device would need to be certified as a Bluetooth Dongle and reference to module will have to be removed. If this is to be a module, please provide the instructions and installation manual that is to be provided to the integrator (OEM) manufacturer and not a manual of a final product.
- 2 Please change your caution statement on page 18 to reflect the fact that unauthorized modifications may void the users authority to operate the device, not just that it may violate FCC regulations. You could for example add the words – “and may void the user;s right to operate the equipment” at the end of the existing statement.
- 3 Pages 19, 20 and 21 have conflicting rf exposure statements. On page 19 you state that 20cm must be maintained, yet on page 20 and 21 you state 2.5cm must be maintained. Please make the manual consistent in the area of rf compliance. xx
